

The REYL Group renews its partnership with Swiss Paralympic ahead of the 2022 Winter Paralympics in Beijing

Geneva, 27 January 2022. The REYL Group, which is majority-owned by Fideuram-Intesa Sanpaolo Private Banking, is continuing its partnership with Swiss Paralympic ahead of the 2022 Winter Paralympics in Beijing by renewing its commitment to exceptional sportsmen and sportswomen, particularly through its support for the leading athletes Robin Cuche and Sofia Gonzalez.

The REYL Group has supported Swiss Paralympic, the umbrella organisation for Swiss paralympic sport, since 2019. Through this partnership, the Group supports the Swiss athletes who will be selected to participate in future Paralympic Games, including those in Beijing from 4th to 13th March. The Group aims to encourage their sporting career and personal development by enabling them to approach this important competition as confidently as possible and achieve their ambitions.

The pandemic is causing significant organisational challenges in terms of securing sites and implementing new measures against the spread of the virus. These new conditions are also impacting athletes' training plans. Robin Cuche (alpine skiing) and Sofia Gonzalez (athletics), two promising Paralympic athletes who particularly benefit from the Group's financial and logistical support, continue to demonstrate adaptability, courage and resilience as they prepare for their upcoming events.

Robin Cuche, Paralympic athlete, explains: "During the races due to be held soon, I intend to compete with the best and arrive as well prepared as possible at the next big event this year – the 2022 Winter Paralympics in Beijing. I hope to show the best of my skiing there and, potentially bring home a medal. I am happy to be able to count on the support of my family as well as that of the REYL Group."

Nicolas Duchêne, Deputy Chief Executive Officer and Partner of the REYL Group, comments: "The resilience and determination shown by the athletes in the face of the current disruption is truly inspiring. The renewal of our support confirms our commitment to exceptional sportsmen and sportswomen in their national, international and Paralympic competitions."
